Dear Oracle/HP Customer:

Thank you for your recent inquiry regarding Oracle's plans for HP Tru64 UNIX. As a valued customer of Oracle database and applications on Tru64 UNIX, I want you to know that Oracle plans to work with HP to ensure that your investment in our solutions are protected.

For customers with Oracle database and application products running Tru64 UNIX on HP AlphaServer systems, both Oracle and HP are committed to ensuring future product transitions will be as smooth as possible. Our joint goal is to provide our customers with the benefits of new technologies with minimum disruption to their business. You have the joint commitment of Oracle and HP in this regard. You should expect nothing less.

Oracle's current plans are to support Oracle database and application products on Tru64 UNIX on AlphaServer systems - in accordance with the Oracle standard support agreements - at least until 2005.

Tru64 UNIX and its unique TruCluster Server technology are key components of Oracle's strategy to deliver complete database and application solutions on highly scalable, available, and secure platforms.

I want to emphasize that the Oracle relationship with HP has never been stronger and, as our mutual customer, your success and customer satisfaction are our number one priority.

Sincerely,

Doug Kennedy
Vice President
